Serrapeptase is a proteolytic enzyme isolated from the non-pathogenic bacteria Serratia species found in the digestive tract of the Japanese silkworm. The enzyme is used by the worms to digest their cocoons. Serrapeptase has been used as a nutritional supplement in Europe and Asia for nearly three decades. Each vegetarian capsule of Serrapeptase contains enteric-coated pure serrapeptase designed for optimal absorption in the intestinal tract.

Health Benefits of Serrapeptase

1. Atherosclerosis: Doctors have found that Serrapeptase can dissolve blood clots and reduce varicose veins. Other studies from Germany have found that serrapeptase could effectively remove atherosclerotic plaque without hurting any of the healthy cells along the arterial wall.
2. Chronic Inflammation: Multiple studies confirm it's resistance to inflammation and it has been used for this reason in the reduction of chronic sinusitis and other chronic or acute inflammatory conditions.
3. Helps with Traumatic Injuries: Serrapeptase is widely used in Europe as a supplement for traumatic injury (such as sprains and torn ligaments), as well as the inflammation associated with post-surgical patients.
